

A 25-year-old dies, crushed at the Pechina Pier by a mountain of aggregates

While the worker was taking samples, he was trapped by the avalanche at 1330 hours

05/22/2017, 14: 39 Javier Pajarón

A 25-year-old man has died this afternoon at the Pechina dock in the port of Almería, due to the shedding of a mountain of aggregates. The young man was working in the area taking samples of gypsum at the base of the mound of about 15 or 20 meters in height.

The victim was trapped under the avalanche. On-site workers rushed to try to help him, joined quickly by personnel of the Port Police of Almeria. The accident occurred at 1.30 p.m. and after 14.15 there was a lifting of the corpse with personnel of the judicial commission. Members of the National Police and the Civil Guard were also dispatched.

